This classic fairytale from the Arabian Nights has been retold and adapted into numerous different formats over the centuries since it was written. Based on the Disney film of the same name, Aladdin was adapted into a musical theater production that revived the legend for a new generation. Aided by a genie and a magic carpet, a young but clever peasant named Aladdin embarks on the extraordinary quest to earn the love of a beautiful princess. Though he finds his way into the princess's heart, his true identity is exposed by a wicked sorcerer vying for the princess's hand and the power that comes with it. With the same classic songs from the film, Aladdin is a family-friendly, energetic and compelling take on the age-old tale.

Based on Victor Hugo's novel of the same name, Les Misérables is a musical drama composed by Claude-Michel Schönberg with lyrics by Alain Boublil and Jean-Marc Natel. Set against a backdrop of 19th-century France, Les Misérables tells the story of Jean Valjean, a thief who has just been released after serving 19 years in jail for stealing a loaf of bread. Once he is free, he changes his identity and interacts with several other characters in a complex plot that explores themes of war, love and sacrifice. With no spoken dialogue outside of the musical numbers, the show has achieved immense popularity in the US as well as Europe with songs like "I Dreamed a Dream" and "On My Own," and has won several awards including a Tony for Best Musical.
